

PHILIPPINE AIRLINES
McDONNELL DOUGLAS DC-10-30

The first wide-body aircraft to enter service with Philippine Airlines was this DC-10, delivered to the airline in June 1974. Built by the McDonnell Douglas Corporation at Long Beach, California. Powered by three General Electric CF6-50C turbofan engines.

Published by Aviation World, Inc., P.O. Box 188, Bethel, Conn. 06801, U.S.A.

D-015

60541-D

post card